Protecting Consumers From Identity Theft & Fraud

Financial and emotional distress from fraud and identity theft can be overwhelming for consumers. That's why individuals are looking to trusted sources, like their financial institution, to provide them the resources they are looking for when it comes to protecting their identity.

According to the Javelin 2018 Fraud & Security Trends report, 3 in 5 accountholders trust their financial institution to keep them safe. With the growing demand for protection, identity services are becoming a proven method of market differentiation for financial institutions. EZShield understands this first hand and we work with organizations of all sizes to leverage the best identity protection solutions to fit their needs.

Who is responsible to protect you from fraud?

Partnering with an Expert
